

Hospitals (hlbc_Hospitals.txt)

Records contained in the 8-1-1 Directory are classified using the AIRS Taxonomy, which is the international standard for categorizing health and social services.

- ❖ Medical institutions that provide diagnostic and treatment services for people whose illnesses or injuries require that they occupy a bed for at least one night. Hospitals can be distinguished by the level of care they offer (general acute, subacute, extended acute care) and the medical conditions in which they may specialize (specialty hospitals).¹

HealthLink BC is the gateway to access non-emergency health information and services in British Columbia. It's a phone number and it's a website; it's a collection of print and telephone resources that put services and health know-how into the hands and homes of BC residents.
